Hi John,

 We've completed the updates to your website's contact page and wanted to explain the decisions behind the changes. We added all the required form fields, including first name, last name, email address, a dropdown menu for the reason for inquiry, and a message box. We designed the layout to be clear and easy for users to navigate, and we made sure it meets your accessibility requirements by using visual cues that do not rely on colour alone. For example, the error messages now include both text and symbols so that users clearly understand what needs to be corrected. We also implemented data validation using JavaScript, with custom validation on the first name field and additional checks on the email, inquiry reason, and message areas. This ensures users receive accessible, descriptive feedback if any information is missing or incorrect. Your contact page is now live and can be viewed at:

https://github.com/vlynx8/WebDev_Project_EasternPower.git

If you'd like us to make any further adjustments, we're happy to help.

Best regards.